SUCCESS OF ACHIEVABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

Promoting Socio-Economic Development In human life a society participates in human economic development and achieves economic development when that society realizes economic development.

Providing human resources necessary to live a healthy life is to see a disease-free and peaceful life.

Providing quality education and humanitarian work means that poor students are disadvantaged in the education sector on the basis that the poor are richer, and that the poor students are receiving equal quality education on a humanitarian basis. Making a better educator.

Achieving and promoting equality for children and women through prioritization in education, society and the profession, and the visible improvement in their lives.

Conservation of resources refers to conservation of natural resources and human resources, including water resources, land, forests, wetlands, mountains, dry lands, and human resources.

Actions to help and develop people affected by climate change Landslide, Rain Flood, Earthquake, Fire, and Water during the destructions caused by etc... They lose their houses and their daily necessities and we do our best to help them move forward from the decline of their livelihoods by carrying out development work.

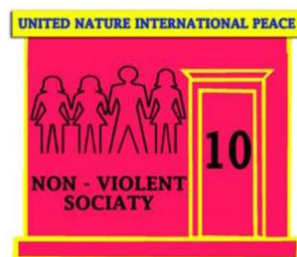

Promoting the integration of peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development while retaining the ethno-religious language found in today's world. They are moving towards a life of isolation and disunity in preserving and developing the language they speak, the religion they worship and their own race. It can be observed that they are objective and hence massive social development can be seen by removing such discriminations and bringing communities together.

The act of identifying the economically depressed and eradicating hunger and food security and providing nutritious food is a human born out of economic depression. He kills himself, unable to see his family starving, to endure hunger and suffer disease without food. Identifying such people and providing them with the necessary support to survive by providing them with nutritious food and eliminating their hunger.

Health and well-being can be provided by immediately identifying those affected by climate change and providing opportunities to combat and overcome those impacts.

The act of speaking out against violence against children and women does not stop until sexual assault takes place Awareness programs related to the issues should be conducted to clarify issues such as discussions etc. Women should be helped to detect and take appropriate action against the injustice of children.
